

Sandeep Talaulicar
Managing Director, Jakson Hospitality

"Jakson Inns will be more than just hotels, they will be institutions. Being first hotel in the area they are located in, Jakson Inns are poised to weave themselves into the fabric of society. We are currently not only interacting locally with the farmer, the labour pool, grocer, baker, school, tailor but also with the ladies coop that sell us their masalas, pickles and savouries. As a diverse employer, we are trying to achieve a 40% female ratio and hiring able individuals with various physical challenges. As a Gold LEED (Green Building) certified hotel, we will produce 75 KW of our own solar energy in every hotel we own, using a BARC designed bio degradable plan to reduce the burden on the landfills. We are a responsible plastic user. The use of STP and rain water harvesting is part of our brand standards. In fact, we not only plan to exceed guest satisfaction in product and quality, we plan to exceed what an average hotel in India is doing to keep Mother Nature happy."

Established in 2011, Jakson Hospitality Private Limited is the synergy of two visionary leaders, Mr. Sameer Gupta and Mr. Sandeep Talaulicar. Mr. Gupta sought to lay the foundation of hospitality under the Jakson Group while, Mr. Talaulicar aims to build a hospitality enterprise for the budget-conscious Indian.

Jakson Hospitality is proud to present their first milestone; Jakson Inns at Phaltan (Maharashtra), Jakson Inns are designed for growing industrial towns of India. They offer guests strategic location within these towns that effectively reduces their travel time to commercial hubs and ensures safety due to proximity to their work.

Phaltan is situated in Satara district of Maharashtra. Although considered an ancient city, it has recently witnessed an immense boom, with industrial development of sugar factories and a 300-acre mega-site plant constructed by the engineering giant, Cummins India.
